COVID-19

Survival Guide for Companies

Which immediate measures and precautions should Companies take to face the situation caused by the outbreak of the COVID-19 virus?

- ✓ Keep a record of the infected employees in quarantine and prophylactic isolation, especially if the company continues to operate (with due regard for the applicable rules on personal data protection).
- ✓ Keep in constant contact with the company's health and safety services for the measures to be taken in each specific case, including when it is necessary, to prepare safety data sheets for procedures that prove necessary for the employees' and customers' safety.
- ✓ Place all employees in remote working regime whenever the functions allows it.
- ✓ Verify which support and extraordinary regimes are in force, that may be potentially applicable to the specific case and to the employees at their service (we indicate some below).

- ✓ Confirm whether, and under what terms, the obligations arising from the declaration of the State of Emergency impact or limit the company's activity, namely, whether the company's activity allows it to continue operating.
- ✓ Verify how to overcome logistical situations, such as the remote signature of documents or drawing up statements that allow the movement of the employees in the performance of their duties.
- ✓ Review all contracts in force and any clauses providing for cases of force majeure, in order to foresee and/or avoid potential breaches of contract.
- ✓ Reviewing insurance contracts, including director and manager liability (D&O) insurance contracts.
- ✓ When applicable, check the current terms on which electronic means of payment are made available to consumers.

- ✓ Analyze the feasibility of implementing extraordinary measures, namely, in terms of compliance with tax obligations and social contributions (we indicate some of them below).
- ✓ Confirm what credits the company has and request information from the entities providing the loan as to whether it is possible to request, depending on the case, a grace period for payment, extension of credits or the respective suspension (we indicate below some situations in which this is possible).
- ✓ Analyze the possible need to use credit lines to support treasury/cash or other needs of the company, depending on the economic activity developed.

WORKING REMOTELY

Are companies obliged to make their employees work remotely?

Yes. Currently, it is mandatory to adopt the remote working regime, regardless of the employment relationship, whenever the function in question allows it.

Does the implementation of the remote working regime need to be formalized by entering into a contract for the subordinate provision of remote working?

No. In view of the contingency situation in which we find ourselves, the formalization of the remote working is not necessary. We suggest, however, that an e-mail should be sent to the employees to clarify the circumstances in which work should be organized and which employees can work remotely. It should also be clarified that this is a containment measure and, therefore, it has a temporary nature, being only applicable during the necessary period.

Does the company have to pay food allowance to the employees in remote working?

Yes, the authorities have already clarified that remote workers, under the current pandemic containment, have the same rights as when they were at the workplace.

SIMPLIFIED LAY OFF

What are the extraordinary support measures for companies and employees affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, currently in force, with a view to maintaining jobs and mitigating corporate crisis situations?

The following measures are currently in force:

- Extraordinary support for the maintenance of employment contracts in companies in a business crisis, amounting to 2/3 of the remuneration, with Social Security paying 70% of this amount, the remainder being supported by the employer (simplified lay off);
- Extraordinary IEFP training plan, with a support that can reach up to €635 per employee;
- Temporary exemption from the payment of Social Security contributions by the employer;
- Extraordinary financial incentive to support the normalization of the company's activity, in the amount of €635 per employee.

What is the extraordinary support measure for the maintenance of employment contracts in companies in a situation of business crisis (simplified lay off)?

This support takes the form of financial support attributed to the company, intended exclusively for the payment of remuneration, in periods of temporary reduction of working hours or suspension of employment contracts.

Who can use the simplified lay off?

The following employers can use this measure:

- Commercial companies, regardless of corporate form, cooperatives, foundations, associations, federations and confederations;
- Self-employed persons who are employers.

Under what circumstances is the simplified lay off applicable?

Companies in a situation of business crisis may have recourse to this regime due to one of the following situations:

- Total or partial closure of the company or the commercial establishment, resulting, in general terms, from legal, administrative or health authority imposition;
- Total or partial stoppage of the activity of the company or the commercial establishment, due to the interruption of global supply chains, or the suspension or cancellation of orders, which can be documented, with the result that the use of the affected enterprise or unit will be reduced by more than 40% of its production or occupancy capacity in the month following the request for support;
- Abrupt and sharp decrease of at least 40% of revenue, in the period of thirty days prior to the order

How is the reduction of 40% in the revenue determined?

The reduction of 40% is measured by comparing the invoicing in the 30 days preceding the request and:

- The monthly average of the two months preceding that period; or
- The same period in the previous year; or
- For those who started less than 12 months ago, the average of that period.

How the 30 days are counted?

The 30 days are counted continuously. The reference period shall be the 30-day period immediately preceding the request, and it is not necessary to fall within a complete month.

For companies that started their activity less than 12 months ago, how is the loss of revenue calculated?

The loss of revenue is calculated by comparing the average invoicing amount for the 30 days immediately preceding the request date with the average invoicing amount since the date when the activity started.

What is the procedure to be adopted in order to apply for the simplified lay off?

The company must send, through the Social Security online platform, an electronic form, accompanied by:

- Declaration with a brief description of the business crisis situation;
- Certificate of the certified accountant of the company attesting the verification of the business crisis situation, in the cases of:
  - Total or partial stoppage of the company or establishment's activity;
  - Abrupt and sharp decrease in at least 40% of revenue.
- Nominal listing of the employees covered and their Social Security number, in an Excel file, under the terms made available online by Social Security.

If the company uses the lay off, does it have to suspend the employment contract of all its employees?

No. The lay off may imply the suspension of employment contracts and/ or the reduction of the normal period of work, and the two regimes may be in force in the same company at the same time, covering all or just some employees.

Is it necessary to have the employee's agreement?

The application of this regime does not require the employee's agreement. However, the decision to resort to this measure, must be communicated to the employees, in writing (for example, by sending them a professional e-mail from the company), indicating the expected duration. Before proceeding with the communication, the company should listen to the union delegates and employees' committees, when they exist.

What happens to employee's remuneration during the simplified lay off?

Regardless of a situation of reduction in the normal working period or suspension of contracts, the employees retain the right to receive monthly a minimum amount equal to 2/3 of their normal gross remuneration or the value of the "Minimum Monthly Guaranteed Income (RMMG)", corresponding to the normal working period, whichever is higher and with a maximum limit of three times the RMMG (€1.905).

How is the remuneration calculated in the event of a reduction in the normal working period?

In a situation where the normal working period is reduced, the amount is calculated in proportion to the hours worked, without prejudice to the application of the limits mentioned above.

Who pays the employee's remuneration?

The Social Security ensures the payment of 70% of 2/3 of the gross normal remuneration of each employee covered, with a minimum amount of €444,50 and a maximum amount of €1.333,50 per employee.

The employer must ensure the payment due to each employee covered, which may not be less than RMMG (€635), nor more than three times this remuneration (€1,905), and the Social Security will transfer the respective contribution to the employer.

We advise consulting the table included (below) with respect to the family assistance rights.

What are the items that integrate the concept of “normal gross remuneration” of the employees?

The concept of “normal gross remuneration” should include the basic remuneration, diuturnities and all other regular and periodic payments inherent to the provision of work.

Does this support cover directors and company administrators?

No

What is the duration of this extraordinary support measure?

The lay off will have an initial duration up to one month and may be extended monthly, up to a maximum of 3 months, until 30 June 2020.

Can companies, that have their contributory and/or tax status to be regularized, benefit from this extraordinary support measure?

No. Having their tax and social security situation before the Social Security and the Tax Authority in order, is a requirement of access to this support measure

However, until 30th April 2020, the debts constituted in March 2020 are not considered.

PROFESSIONAL TRAINING

TPA

TERESA PATRÍCIO & ASSOCIADOS
SOCIEDADE DE ADVOGADOS

What is the extraordinary support measure for part-time professional training?

This extraordinary support lasts for one month and is granted according to the hours of training attended, up to a limit of 50% of the gross remuneration, with a maximum ceiling of RMMG (€635) per employee.

Who bears the costs of this support?

The costs are borne by IEFP, I.P.

Who will cover the scholarship and the professional training costs?

The scholarship and the professional training costs will be supported by IEFP, I.P.

Under which circumstances is the extraordinary support for part-time professional training applicable?

The companies in a business crisis situation that have not resorted to the extraordinary support measures to help pay the employees' remuneration, can access the extraordinary support for part-time professional training, through a training plan, to maintain their respective jobs and the strengthening of the employee's skills, in order to act preventively against the unemployment.

What is the procedure to be adopted for a company to access this measure?

The company must inform the employees, in writing, of its decision to initiate professional training, indicating the expected duration of the measure.

The company must submit, through the respective online portal, an electronic application, accompanied by:

- A declaration that attests to this fact, in situations of total or partial closure of the company or establishment, as a result of the duty to close factories and establishments by legal, administrative or health authority imposition;
- Declaration by the employer and certificate of the certified accountant of the company attesting to the verification of the business crisis situation, in case of:
  - Total or partial stoppage of the activity of the company or establishment;
  - Abrupt and Sharp decrease of at least 40% of revenue;
- In both situations, a nominative list of the employees covered and the respective Social Security number, in an Excel file.

During the term of these extraordinary measures, is the obligation to pay Social Security contributions, under the responsibility of the employer, maintained?

No. During the period in which these measures are in force, employers are entitled to a total exemption from the payment of Social Security contributions, with respect to the workers covered and the members of the statutory bodies, ie the exemption refers to contributions referring to the months in which the company is the beneficiary of the measures, maintaining the 11% contribution for the worker.

Is it necessary to apply for exemption?

No. The exemption from the payment of contributions, with respect to the workers, will be officially recognized.

INCENTIVE TO THE NORMALIZATION OF THE ACTIVITY

What is the extraordinary financial incentive to ensure the normalization of business activity?

The extraordinary financial incentive corresponds to the value of RMMG (€ 635), per worker, to be paid in one installment.

What is the purpose of this measure?

This measure is intended to support companies in a first phase of returning to normality, with a view to reducing the risk of unemployment and preventing the maintenance of jobs in companies that have been in a situation of business crisis due to the outbreak of COVID-19.

Which entity is responsible for granting this incentive?

The extraordinary financial incentive is granted by IEFP, I.P.

What is the procedure to be adopted in order to apply this measure?

To access this incentive, the employer must submit an application to IEFP, I.P., attaching, when applicable, the following documents:

- Accounting balance sheet referring to the month of support as well as the corresponding month or previous months, when applicable;
- Value Added Tax (VAT) declaration referring to the month of support as well as the two immediately preceding months, or the declaration referring to the last quarter of 2019 and the first quarter of 2020, depending on whether the applicant is in the monthly or quarterly VAT regime respectively, which show the intermittency or interruption of supply chains or the suspension or cancellation of orders; and
- Documents demonstrating the cancellation of orders or reservations, resulting in the use of the affected company or unit being reduced by more than 40% of its production or occupancy capacity in the month following the request for support; and
- Additional supporting elements to be established by an order of the Government responsible for the area of labor and social security.

SUPERVISION AND RESTRICTIONS

Can there be an inspection of the business crisis?

Yes. The entities benefiting from extraordinary support can be inspected, at any time, by the competent public entities, and must prove, through documentary evidence, the facts on which the support requests submitted were based.

What kind of documentation may be requested by the competent authorities?

The following documents may be requested, in the applicable cases, namely:

- Accounting balance sheet referring to the month of support as well as the corresponding same month;
- Value Added Tax (VAT) declaration referring to the month of support as well as the two immediately preceding months, or the declaration referring to the last quarter of 2019 and the first quarter of 2020, as the applicant is in the monthly or quarterly VAT regime respectively, which show the intermittency or interruption of supply chains or the suspension or cancellation of orders; and
- Documents demonstrating the cancellation of orders or reservations, resulting in the use of the affected company or unit being reduced by more than 40% of its production or occupancy capacity in the month following the request for support; and
- Additional supporting elements to be established by an order of the Government member responsible for the area of labor and social security.

Can companies that applied for these measures dismiss workers?

No. During the validity of these measures and for the next 60 days, a general prohibition of dismissal applies, under which the employer will not be able to terminate employment contracts, in terms of collective dismissal or dismissal due to the extinction of the post.

Are companies prevented from terminating fixed-term employment contracts during these measures?

No. Companies can report the non-renewal of fixed-term employment contracts whose term ends in this period.

In which situations may companies or workers repay the support granted or pay undue amounts during the period of validity of these extraordinary measures?

This can happen when any of the following situations occurs:

- Dismissal, except for reasons attributable to the worker;
- Punctual non-compliance with the remuneration obligations owed to workers;
- Failure by the employer to comply with its legal, tax or contributory obligations;
- Profit distribution during the term of the obligations arising from the granting of the incentive, in any form;
- Non-compliance, attributable to the employer, of the obligations assumed, within the established deadlines;
- Providing false statements;
- Provision of work to the employer by the worker covered by the extraordinary support measure for the maintenance of the employment contract in the form of suspension of the contract, or beyond the established schedule, in the form of temporary reduction of the normal period of work.

How long can companies use these measures for?

The measures described above are in force until 30th June 2020.

Can Companies that are not in a situation of corporate crisis, but that take the initiative to temporarily stop their activity, in a preventive manner, in order to avoid the risk of spreading the COVID-19 virus among their employees, suppliers, customers and others, benefit from the support mentioned above?

No. The support applies only to companies that are in a business crisis situation as defined above.

In the case of temporary closure or temporary decrease in the activity of a company or establishment that does not fall into a situation of business crisis under the terms mentioned above, what is the applicable regime?

In this case, companies may resort to the temporary closure regime or temporary reduction of the activity provided for in the Labor Code - Lay off - being able, in general terms, to resort to this regime on the following grounds:

- Business crisis situation (defined differently from the business crisis situation applicable to the simplified lay off);
- Unforeseeable circumstances or force majeure.

LAY OFF PROVIDED IN LABOUR LAW

What is the lay off provided for in Labor Law?

It is the temporary reduction of normal working periods or the suspension of employment contracts, due to market, structural or technological reasons, disasters or other events that have seriously affected the company's normal activity, provided that such a measure is essential to ensure the viability of the company and the maintenance of jobs.

This lay off has a longer and more complex process, which is why the lay off implemented in the context of the COVID-19 crisis is called “simplified”.

However, given that their requirements are more comprehensive, it can be a way of allowing lay off to companies that cannot use simplified lay off.

What happens to the workers' remuneration during the lay off provided for in Labor Law?

In case the lay off is due to a business crisis (defined differently from the business crisis situation applicable to the simplified lay off), the employee's remuneration will correspond to a minimum amount equal to  $\frac{2}{3}$  of his normal gross remuneration or the value of the Guaranteed Minimum Monthly Remuneration (RMMG), corresponding to the normal working period, whichever is higher and with the maximum limit being triple the RMMG (€ 1,905).

When the use of the lay off is due to force majeure, workers retain the right to receive 75% of the remuneration.

We advise you to consult the table included (below) in the family rights assistance.

If the company makes use of the Lay off regime provided for in Labor Law, does it have support in the payment of compensation to workers?

In the event that the lay off is due to a business crisis, 70% of the worker's compensation will be paid by Social Security and 30% by the employer.

When the use of the lay off is due to force majeure, the remuneration is entirely the responsibility of the company.

RIGHT TO ASSIST A FAMILY MEMBER

In the current context of combatting the pandemic of the disease COVID-19, has an exceptional and temporary regime of justified absences been created? What are the situations covered?

Yes. Justified absences are those motivated by:

- Assistance to a child or other dependent of the worker under 12 years of age or, regardless of age, with a disability or chronic illness, as well as a grandson who lives with the worker in a communion with the table and who is the child of an adolescent aged less than 16 years old, in periods of academic interruption legally fixed and outside of them;
- By assisting a spouse or person living in a common law relationship or common economy with the worker, relative or similar in the straight upward line that is in charge of the worker and who frequents social facilities whose activity is suspended as determined by the health authority, or by the Government, insofar as it is not possible to continue support for an alternative social response;
- For the provision of aid or transportation, in the context of the COVID-19 disease pandemic, by volunteer firefighters with an employment contract with an employer from the private or social sector, evidently called by the respective fire department.

What is the regime applicable to these absences?

The absences of workers under the terms of the previous question, do not result in the loss of any rights, except with regards to remuneration and do not count towards the annual limit provided for in Labor Law.

In order to provide assistance to the family, can the worker book a vacation without having to agree with the employer?

Yes. The worker is allowed to schedule a vacation, without the need to agree with the employer, by giving written notice and two days in advance of its start, with due payment for the period corresponding to that which the worker would receive if he was on effective service and in this case, the holiday allowance may be paid in full up to the fourth month following the start of the holiday period.

What exceptional support measures are in place for employees who have to miss work to assist their child or other person dependent on the worker under 12 years of age or, regardless of age, with a disability or chronic illness?

Employees are entitled to receive exceptional monthly or proportional support, corresponding to 2/3 of their basic remuneration, paid in equal parts by the employer and Social Security. This support has a minimum limit of one RMMG and a maximum limit of three RMMG.

This support is granted only once, and only to one of the parents.

What if the workers are simultaneously working from home?

If workers are providing assistance to the family but working from home, this will be considered as an effective work provision, with the worker entitled to receive 100% of the respective remuneration, paid in full by the employer.

TAX OBLIGATIONS

Which tax measures were approved for companies?

The Government postponed the deadline for complying with certain tax, reporting and payment obligations, with respect to corporate tax, as follows::

- The deadline for Special Payment on Account was postponed from 31st March to 20th June 2020;
- The first Payment on Account and the Additional Payment on Account was postponed from 31st July to 31st August 2020;
- The deadline for submission on the Model 22 Declaration and payment of corporate tax was postponed to 31st July 2020.

What does the flexibility in complying with the tax obligations in the 2nd quarter of 2020 for companies and independent workers entail?

This flexibility allows, on the date of payment of the tax, that the tax payer can opt between:

- Immediate payment, as normal;
- Payment in 3 monthly installments; or
- Payment in 6 monthly installments, without interest.

Which obligations are included in this flexibility?

This measure includes payment of VAT, as well as the payment of withholding tax on Personal Tax and on Corporate Tax.

To whom does this flexibility apply?

This applies to all taxpayers who have to comply with the tax obligations in the 2nd quarter of 2020, as long as they fulfill the following criteria:

- Have a revenue of up to 10 million euros in 2018;
- Develop their activity in one of the sectors that have been closed under Article 7 and Annex I of Decree no. 2-A/2020, of 20th March, as follows:
  - Recreation, Entertainment and Leisure;
  - Culture and Arts;
  - Sports, except high performance athletes;
  - Activities in open and public spaces, as well as private spaces that have been compared to public spaces;
  - Betting and gaming facilities;
  - Restaurants;
  - Hot springs, spas and similar facilities;
- Initiated their activity on or after 1st January 2019;
- Reinitiated their activity on or after 1st January 2019, when they did not have a revenue in 2018;
- Declare or show a reduction in revenue of at least 20% in the 3 months prior to the month in which the obligation arises, when compared to the same period in the previous year.

How is the reduction in revenue of at least 20% determined?

The reduction in revenue of at least 20% is shown by way of a certificate provided by the company's certified accountant or chartered accountant.

This is certified with reference to the volume of business, when the reporting of the invoices via the online platform (via E-Factura) does not reflect all the operations subject to VAT, even if exempt, in relation to the period in question.

How can the taxpayers to whom this flexibility regime is applicable, request payment in installments?

The request for payment in installments is made online, up until the deadline for voluntary payment.

When and how can the installments be paid?

The first installment is due on the date of payment of the obligation, and the remaining installments are payable monthly on the same date as the initial payment. The general rules of the regime for the collection and reimbursement of Personal and Corporate tax, approved by Decree Law 492/88, of 30th December, are applicable.

If I opt for payment in installments, do I need to provide a guarantee?

No; the tax payers (companies or independent workers) will not need to provide a guarantee if they opt for payment in installments.

Which measures were taken in respect of payments to Social Security?

The following measures were approved with respect to payments to Social Security:

- The payment of the social Security contribution due on 20th March 2020 was suspended;
- The payment of the contributions due in the month of March 2020 was exceptionally extended to 31st March 2020;
- The payments of contributions due in March, April and May are now flexible and their payment may be delayed.

Who is entitled to defer their social contributions?

Independent workers and employers, in both the private and public sector, can defer their payments in relation to February 2020 if they comply with any of the following situations:

- If they have less than 50 employees;
- If they have between 50 and 249 employees and have a reduction in revenue as outlined below;
- If they have 250 or more employees, as long as their activities are included in one of the following situations:
  - Charity or equivalent institution; or
  - If the establishment or business has been effectively closed, as a result of the State of Emergency, or is in the aviation or tourism sector, and as long as there is a decrease in revenue as outlined below; or
  - Establishments or companies that have been closed, due to their activities having been suspended, by administrative or legislative order, under Decree law 10-A/2020, of 13th March, or under the Framework Law of Civil Protection and the Framework Law of Health.

TPA

SOCIEDADE DE ADVOGADOS

How is the decrease in revenue determined for the purposes of deferring the payment of social contributions?

For this purpose, the employers will need to show, during the month of July 2020, jointly with a certificate of the company's chartered accountant, a reduction in revenue of at least 20% in the revenue of the months of March, April and May 2020 (in comparison with the previous year) or, if they have initiated activity in the last 12 months, the average of the period that has since lapsed.

This should be determined in relation to the volume of business, when the communication of the invoices (via the portal E-Factura) does not reflect all the operations subject to VAT, even if exempt, during the period in question.

In what way are the social contributions due in the months of March, April and May 2020 deferred?

The contributions to be paid by the employer in the months of March, April and May 2020 can be paid in the following manner:
1/3 of the amount is paid in the month when it is normally due;

The remaining 2/3 is paid in equal and successive installments in the months of July, August and September 2020 or in the months of July to December 2020, without interest.

How is the request made?

The payment of the social contributions in this manner is automatic and does not require a specific request.

Does this mean that the employers are not required to make the full payment of the contributions?

No; the employers must still pay the full amount of the contributions owing to Social Security, but can opt between making the full payment or deferring the payment over a period of time.

Is this deferral subject to control?

Yes, the deferral of the payment of the social contributions is subject to control, at any time, by the competent authorities, and the beneficiaries should be in a position to prove the conditions that motivate the deferral at any time, in addition to the verification made online by the Tax Authorities, via the E-Factura platform.

Until when and in which manner can the deadline intended for the deferral, be communicated?

The employers should inform, via the Social Security Direct platform, which deadline they intend using for the deferred payment of the social contributions, in July 2020.

What is the consequence of non-compliance with the obligation to pay 1/3 of the value of the contributions?

The non-compliance with the obligation to pay 1/3 of the value of the contributions shall determine the immediate termination of the benefits that have been granted. The non-compliance with the requirements to benefit from the deferral of the payments will mean the immediate payment of all the installments due, as well as the end of the exemption of interest foreseen in general terms.

What happens to the tax and fiscal enforcement proceedings that are underway?

The possibility of suspending the payments in installments that are in course with the Tax Authorities is provided for (only in tax enforcement proceedings) as well as with Social Security (whether or not within enforcement proceedings), in accordance with number 1 of article 7 of Law 1-A/2020, of 19th March. However, those who wish to, may continue to comply with their payments by installments.

Tax proceedings that are underway or to be commenced are suspended, at least until 30th June 2020, even if the State of Emergency ends before this date.

BANKING OBLIGATIONS

Which measures have been adopted with respect to bank loans?

A moratorium has been approved, to be in force until 30th September 2020, that provides the following:

- Prohibition of revocation, totally or partially, of contracted loans and credit lines, in the amounts contracted when the Decree Law came into force;
- The extension of loans, with payment of capital at the end of the contract, together with the associated elements, including interest, guarantees, namely through insurance or credit titles, and/or
- The suspension of loans with partial reimbursement of capital or partial maturity of other pecuniary obligations and the contractual framework of capital, rents, interest, commissions and other expenses is extended automatically for a period identical to the period of suspension.

Which conditions have to be met to benefit from the moratorium?

- The companies must have head office and undertake their economic activity in Portugal;
- The companies must be classified as micro, small and medium companies in accordance with the Recommendation 2003/361/CE of the European Commission of 6th May 2003. This means that companies must be classified as micro, small or medium companies at IAPMEI – for more information, please consult the following website:
<https://www.iapmei.pt/Paginas/Certificacao-PME-Area-Empresa.aspx>;
- The companies cannot be in a situation of arrears or breach in their pecuniary payments for more than 90 (ninety) days, and cannot be in a situation of insolvency;
- The companies cannot have debts to the Tax Authorities or Social Security.

How can this moratorium be requested?

- By filing a declaration of registration for the moratorium at the Bank, in paper or electronically, signed by the legal representatives.
- This declaration shall be accompanied by documents showing that there are no debts to the tax Authorities or Social Security, and the institutions shall apply the protective measures within a maximum deadline of five working days after receiving the declaration and the documents.
- If the company does not fulfill the requirements to benefit from the measures provided for in the decree law, the banks should inform them within three working days by way of communication in the same format used to make the request initially.
- To obtain further information on this matter, the companies should contact their banks directly.

CONTRACTUAL OBLIGATIONS

How can administrators, directors and managers continue to sign contracts and documents to allow their activity to proceed?

Since the entry into force of Ordinance 73/2018 of 12th March, it is possible to associate the capacity of Administrator, director or manager to the Citizen's Card, using the digital signature to sign documents and contracts without having to be physically present and thereby not affecting their activity.

Does the declaration of State of Emergency give the right to terminate contracts?

The State of Emergency and the measures that are approved under it, may confer the right to a contractual party who is affected, to terminate or modify the terms of the contract, under the regime of change of circumstances, foreseen in the Civil Code.

When can the contracts be terminated due to change in circumstances?

The termination of a contract due to a change in circumstances is only possible if:

- The damage caused by the State of Emergency is not within the risks of the contract;
- If the execution of the contract by the affected party will seriously affect the principles of good faith;
- There is no prior situation of arrears by the affected party in relation to their contractual obligations;
- The party that wants the termination is in conditions to return what they have received from the other party (except: (1) stipulation by the parties that they do not wish to confer any retroactive effects to the termination; (2) this rule does not apply to obligations already complied with, in contracts of continued or periodic execution).

If the requirements for the termination of the contract due to change in circumstances are not met, there may be a possibility to alter the terms of the contract.

Invoking the change in circumstances can be made by way of declaration to the other party, which should be made in writing.

Once the termination is requested by the affected party, due to the measures that have been enacted under the state of emergency, the other party may oppose the request, and propose a change to the contract as an alternative.
